Michael Brindle QC

President

Appeals Panel

Mr Michael Brindle has practised at the Bar since 1975. His speciality is commercial/financial law. Having acted for most of the larger financial institutions, he became a favourite choice of counsel for the Financial Services Authority, and was involved in the reform of their procedures in the early 2000s. This has given him considerable insight into financial regulation. This has encompassed not only England and Wales, but also many other jurisdictions, where banks and financial institutions have sought to participate in the London financial markets.

He has been involved in many of the leading cases on financial regulation, as well as mis-selling cases arising out of, preceding and following the 2008-2009 financial crisis. He sits as a deputy High Court judge, and as a commercial arbitrator in England, Singapore and the Gulf.
